Friday Letter 13 November 2009

Good Day Fellow Big Dogs

Today is Friday, the thirteenth, the bane of all paraskevidekatriaphobics, also referred to as friggatriskaidekaphobics (those who fear Friday, the thirteenth). According to Charles Panati, an expert on origins, the actual origin of the superstition appears to be a tale in Norse mythology. Friday is named for Frigga, the free-spirited goddess of love and fertility. When Norse and Germanic tribes converted to Christianity, Frigga was banished in shame to a mountaintop and labeled a witch. It was believed that every Friday, the spiteful goddess convened a meeting with eleven other witches, plus the devil - a gathering of thirteen - and plotted ill turns of fate for the coming week. For many centuries in Scandinavia, Friday was known as "Witches' Sabbath".

Quote of the Week

Superstition is to religion what astrology is to astronomy: the mad daughter of a wise mother.

VOLTAIRE

This past week saw the passing of another year for Stanley Anzalone. Attached is a picture of him struggling to blow out the ceremonial birthday candle. Another milestone was reached this past week with the birth of Noah, the son of Stephen Diamond and grandson of Cathy Glass. From the looks of the attached photos, it looks as if we may have a future member of the pack.

Tropical storm Ida created a little excitement this week, as the Hurlburt MFH team had to break out the hurricane shutters for the Senior Officer housing units and put them up before, and take them down after the storm passed. It was Jerry Schauer's first experience and he got an eye full.

Next week will see the culmination of nine years as a member of the pack for Sandra Quitugua. She celebrates this anniversary on 18 November.

Again, keep in mind that we will be celebrating Thanksgiving at the Corporate headquarters with a "no turkey, ham, or chicken allowed" pot luck buffet on Tuesday, 24 November. The buffet theme will be Italian. Let's all put on our thinking caps and figure what kind of Mediterranean feast we can dish up. Rumor has it that we will have a special guest for this occasion. Derrick Jones will once again grace us with his presence (and he may bring some Italian Texas Sausage).

For those of you who don't know, Jerry is multi-talented. Besides being the leader of the Hurlburt MFH team, he is an accomplished set designer, among other things. Below is a plug for his latest effort.

Just would like to plug my Stage Crafters show "1776 A Musical Comedy" to the ThomCo family.

This play tells the story, with literary license, of the days in May, June and July 1776 leading up to the birth of the United States of America and the writing of the Declaration of Independence. Portions of spoken and sung dialogue are taken directly from the letters and memoirs of the participants in those historical events. The talent is exceptional, the timing is perfect. Despite the jaded politics, both nationally and locally you'll find yourself filled with pride at the depth of foresight and wisdom our Founding Fathers had in creating the Declaration of Independence. To think these great thinkers could have been hanged for their actions is chilling.

I designed and built the set which represents Independence Hall from the early stages of American History and my 18 year old Son, Joshua plays the Courier which has a poignant solo at the end of act 1. The show is getting rave reviews in the local papers and receives standing ovations every night from the first week of performances and we only have three more performances left and they are as follows:

Friday, 13 Nov @ 7:30pm

Saturday, 14 Nov @ 7:30pm

Sunday, 15 Nov @ 2:00pm

At the Fort Walton Beach Municipal Auditorium, doors open one hour before curtain.
